SENTIMENT ANALYSIS FOR MARKETING USING PYTHON

PHASE 3 SUBMISSION DOCUMENT

Phase 3: Development part-1

INTRODUCTION:

- Sentiment analysis is a data-driven technique that assesses and categorizes emotions and opinions expressed in text data.
- It's a valuable tool in modern marketing, helping companies gain deeper insights into customer perceptions and behaviors.
- Key benefits include customer-centric marketing, competitive advantage, real-time insights, and content strategy optimization.
- In today's data-driven marketing landscape, sentiment analysis is pivotal for understanding consumer sentiment and making data-informed decisions.
- It goes beyond surface-level perceptions, delving into the emotional undercurrents that drive consumer decisions and brand loyalty.

LOADING DATASET:

STEP-1: Data Collection

Choose the appropriate data format (e.g., text documents, CSV files, JSON files)

STEP-2: Data Acquisition

Use web scraping tools or APIs to collect data from online sources.

STEP-3: Data Preprocessing

Clean the data by removing irrelevant information, special characters, and duplicates.

STEP-4: Data Labeling

Manually or automatically assign sentiment labels (positive, negative, neutral) or more fine-grained sentiments to the data.

STEP-5: Data Storage

Organize and store the data in a structured format (e.g., CSV, JSON, or a database).

STEP-6: Data Split

Divide the dataset into training, validation, and test sets for model development and evaluation.

STEP-7: Loading the Dataset in Code

Use appropriate libraries (e.g., Pandas in Python) to load data into your analysis environment.

STEP-8: Data Exploration

Examine the loaded data to understand its structure and content.

PREPROCESSING DATASET:

STEP-1: Text Cleaning

Remove special characters, symbols, and punctuation marks from the text data.

STEP-2: Tokenization:

Tokenize the text data, breaking it into individual words or phrases.

STEP-3: Stop Word Removal

Remove common stop words (e.g., "and," "the," "in") from the text.

STEP-4: Stemming and Lemmatization

Apply stemming or lemmatization to reduce words to their root form.

STEP-5: Handling Negations

Consider handling negations, as they can change the sentiment of a sentence.

STEP-6: Handling Emoticons and Abbreviations

Emoticons (e.g., :) or :() and common abbreviations (e.g., "lol" for "laugh out loud") can carry sentiment and should be considered during preprocessing.

STEP-7: Removing or Handling Noise

Eliminate any irrelevant or noisy data that doesn't contribute to sentiment analysis.

STEP-8: Text Length Normalization

Normalize the text length, ensuring that excessively long or short texts do not disproportionately affect the analysis.

STEP-9: Feature Engineering

Create relevant features from the text data.

STEP-10: Label Encoding:

Convert the sentiment labels (positive, negative, neutral) to numerical values for machine learning models (e.g., 0 for negative, 1 for neutral, 2 for positive).

STEP-11: Data Split:

After preprocessing, split the dataset into training, validation, and test sets for model development and evaluation.

STEP-12: Data Quality Check:

Ensure that the preprocessing steps have not introduced errors or distorted the original sentiment of the text.

STEP-13: Data Storage:

Save the preprocessed dataset in a format that's ready for use in your sentiment analysis model or tool.
